DISCUSSION ITEM	Strategies to Improve Immunization Rates
	Cindy D'Angiolillo recommended collaborating with Boost Oregon to increase parent workshops across the tri-county region.
	Boost Oregon is a parent-led community that educates other parents about vaccines and dispels rumors that circulate online or among their peers, and includes parents, doctors, nurses, naturopaths, midwives, doulas, and community members.
	Lynn, Jennie, and Cindy D. attended a Boost Oregon Provider Training led by Pediatrician and Boost Oregon volunteer Dr. Jay Rosenbloom.
	Cindy plans to invite Dr. Rosenbloom to present to medical personnel, including Samaritan, as well as other interested agencies.
	Hub staff plans to attend the Boost Oregon Parent Workshop in August.
	Cindy D. reminds the group about the peer immunization reviewed journal article, which will be posted on basecamp once it's published.
	Family Tree is hosting a presentation with The Community Doula Program, who specially trained to provide support during the critical months of pregnancy, birth and the early months of parenting.

OPIP is in conversation with OHA about creating a better referral process.
OPIP contracts with agencies to implement their projects.
OPIP works extensively with medical providers; their medical decision tree is one aspect.
There is complex health care context to be considered in creating a medical decision tree.
Colleen agrees to reach out with information regarding the OPIP decision tree webinars in October and November.
Colleen invites the hub to discuss funding opportunities for contracting with OPIP.
Next Steps:
Jennie and Shirley will ask Kristi about creating a video of Shirley taking her children to get immunizations for the Pollywog Parent Voice blog.
Use the Parent Letter to determine how to redirect the Medical Decision Tree as a referral flow chart.
